Questions & Answers

Can I also use the discount in store?

Yes, that's possible! Simply show your Fat Monk ID (QR code in the app) at the checkout. Our staff will scan the code, and the discount will be applied automatically.

How long is the subsidy valid?

For as long as you are employed at the company & the cooperation with your company exists.

I have multiple email addresses – which one should I use?

Please use your official company email address with the domain that has been approved for your company [e.g. @yourcompany.xx].

Do I need to enter anything during checkout to receive the discount?

No, the discount is applied automatically as soon as you have registered with your company email address.

What if I already have a Fat Monk account with my personal email address?

The subsidy only works if you register with your company email address. If you have already collected points on your personal account, we are happy to transfer them. Simply send us your old email address and your company email address to: hello@fatmonk.com

I already have an account with my company email address in the Fat Monk app.

In most cases, the system will automatically recognize your email address and make the subsidy available to you directly. If that doesn't work, please log out of the app once and log back in. If the problem persists, please contact us at hello@fatmonk.com.

Please note: Discounts cannot be combined. The company subsidy also counts as a discount. Should you wish to use additional Fat Monk offers, the higher discount will automatically be applied for you.
